DOUBLE PROBE OF FATAL AIR CRASH BEGUN

Six Killed When Stunting Army Pilot Hits Liner 2 000 Feet Above Ground

SAN DIEGO Cal April 22—A double investigation was to be launched today into the collision of two airplanes which yesterday snuffed out the lives of six persons

The tragedy occurred 2 000 feet over San Diego when an army pursuit plane slipped against a giant trimotored Maddux air liner causing both to crash to earth

The lone occupant of the army plane and all five persons in the air liner were killed outright

The dead

Morris Murphy veteran air pilot who was at the controls of the Maddux ship

Louis Pratt assistant pilot

Cecilia Kelly 16 of Phoenix

A Laujardo a Mexican of San Diego

Amelia Laujardo his sister also of San Diego

Lieut Glen H Keefer army reserve pilot stationed temporarily at Rockwell Field San Diego

Although accounts differed the majority of witnesses declared that Keefer playing a hair breadth game with death about the great liner had sent his fast pursuit ship into one mad stunt after another about it Finally he misjudged his distance and locked wings with the other machine

As far as could be determined Keefer was flying high overhead when the slower passenger plane hove into sight on its regular trip from Los Angeles to Phoenix Ariz

U. S. ASKS ALL WORLD NATIONS TO CUT NAVIES

Actual Reduction in All Classes of Ships Urged by Hugh S Gibson

QUIBBLING TIME PAST

Ambassador Declares Powers Will Follow America If Sincere in Pact Signing

WASHINGTON April 22—A frank and wide-open challenge to the world's great naval powers to join with America in not only limitation of naval armament—but actual reduction in all classes of ships—was put forward today by the American government speaking through its ambassador Hugh S Gibson at the League of Nations preparatory commission for disarmament sitting in Geneva

The burden of the American position was that the time has passed for quibbling and equivocating about reducing naval armament toward the eventual goal of disarmament Ambassador Gibson said the time was ripe to act and he challenged the representatives of Great Britain France and Japan to go along with the United States for real disarmament

Recall Hughes Statement

Our boldness and directness the American challenge today was comparable to that which Charles Evans Hughes as secretary of state threw into the astonished faces of the world's statesmen at the Washington Conference in 1921 proposing the first limitation of naval armamen

The United States Gibson said is not disposed to quibble over methods or formulae What is wanted is results But upon one point in particular the United States is insistent and that is that the reduction or limitation to be effected shall be in all classes of fighting craft many of which are now untouched by existing treaties

Recalls Kellogg Pact

Gibson pointed out that some 50 odd nations have recently renounced war as an instrument of national policy by adhering to the Kellogg anti war treaty If they are sincere in this protestation against war he asked why will they not now be willing to follow the United States in a real effort to reduce the fighting sea complements of all nations in all classes of craft

Any approach to the disarmament problem on purely technical grounds is bound to be inconclusive, Gibson said The technical justification of armaments is based upon the experience of past wars and upon the anticipation of future wars So long as the approach to the problem is based

Nerve? Women Have It

Dr Raffensperger Says Experience of 49 Years as Dentist Has Shown Him "Weaker Sex" Is Far Braver Than Men

BY HALLIE HOUCK
Marion Star Staff Writer

There may be a civil war here as a result of this announcement but it's a fact that Dr L H Raffensperger veteran Marion dentist declares that women have more nerve than men

And if there's a person living qualified to talk about nerve it's either a dentist or the man who pushes the button that sends the current through the electric chair

Great strides have been made in the development of painless dentistry but there are still persons who seem to believe that dentists get together and plan with smiling cunning in their eyes just what they can do to deprive their customers of a desire to continue living

In his 49 years of experience with forceps and drilling apparatus etc which includes all the endless needles nut picks knives plows discs and harrows that the patient imagines the dentist uses Dr Raffensperger has made more sets of false teeth for women than he has for men

Evidence of Courage

Why? He explains it by saying that a man has the nerve to have 10 or 15 decayed teeth pulled at a time so that false teeth may be made Rather a man will stumble into the office a tooth at a time until after years the last tooth is gone and

PRESIDENT URGES EDITORS BACK HIS OBSERVANCE DRIVE

Declares Country Facing National Necessity That "Endangers Very Foundation of Government", Speaks in New York

CITES STATISTICS ON CRIME, PUNISHMENT

Says Life and Property Relatively More Unsafe in U. S Than in Any Other Civilized Country in World, Denies Prohibition To Blame

NEW YORK April 22—Before a large gathering of newspaper editors from all sections of the country assembled at the annual luncheon of the Associated Press, President Hoover today met the crime wave face to face and called for a new deal in the matter of law enforcement and observance He asked for the united support of the press in his drive to that end, and he warned that the country is faced with a national necessity of the first degree which seriously is endangering the very foundation of government

The president singled out no particular law Rather he made a number of startling statements such as

Life and property are relatively more unsafe (in the United States) than in any other civilized country in the world

In many of our great cities one out of every ten arrested will be convicted

In connection with those needs the president told of the fact finding commission he is about to appoint adding that such a commission can perform the greatest of service in our generation

Denies Prohibition To Blame

Prohibition was mentioned merely as one segment of our problem except that Mr Hoover denied vigorously that the Eighteenth amendment had materially affected the increase in crime

In order to dispel certain illusions in the public mind on this subject he asserted that one may not charge that while violations of law have been increased by inclusion of crimes under the Eighteenth amendment and by the vast sums that are poured into the hands of criminal classes by the patronage of illicit liquor by otherwise responsible citi

Farm Debenture Plan is Killed by Hoover

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON April 22—In the face of President Hoover's forbidding disapproval the senate agriculture committee today voted 9 to 7 to retain the debenture export plan in the senate's farm relief bill

It is regarded more or less as idle gesture, for there is little or no hope that the debenture plan will be approved by either branch of congress in view of Mr Hoover's active opposition to it, nor that the president would sign a bill containing it

Nevertheless, with three absentees, the committee voted to retain the plan which will afford the senate proper a chance to vote on it

BY GEORGE R HOLMES
Marion Star Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, April 22—President Hoover has virtually won his first brush with congress

Face to face with the real test of his leadership, Mr Hoover has cracked the whip over congress in the farm relief fight in a manner reminiscent of Roosevelt or Wilson

Abandoning his hitherto passive attitude he informed congress in positive terms that he was opposed to the debenture plan which the old McNary, Haugenites favored as a substitute for the equalization fee, and he indicated plainly that only a veto awaits any farm bill containing it

The president's opposition, expressed in a letter to the senate agriculture committee sounds the death knell of the debenture plan, and by the same token definitely assures the passage of a farm relief bill for which he stands sponsor Of that there can be no doubt

House Behind Him

The well disciplined house already is behind him It is only a minority of the recalcitrant senate with which he has to deal, and irrespective of whether the senate agriculture committee does or does not vote to include the plan in the bill which it reports, the votes cannot be mustered to pass it either house The committee vote may be close, either way, but it doesn't matter much.

Senator McNary, the chairman, who twice fathered bills which President Coolidge vetoed, expressed the general attitude of his colleagues when he said today:

"I will not favor the debenture plan now that the president has expressed opposition to it. I don't know what the committee will do. But I don't want to do anything foolish—such as passing a bill certain to be vetoed." I am finished with 'them battles'—we have fought them for the last four years. This time I want to get the farmer some relief. So long as the president disapproves the debenture plan I shall vote for the plan which he will approve."

Letter Kills Debenture

There will be some fighting over it, or rather some shadow boxing in the senate. But it will be mainly for political purposes and to appease the farm organizations that upon noted the debenture plan, rather than with any idea of victory. The president's letter to McNary, killed all chance of victory for the debenture people. They know it, as well as anyone else.

Mr Hoover cited ten reasons why he is opposed to the debenture plan, among them being that it would cost the treasury $300 000 000 a year, which would stimulate over production, and distort the basis of "crop differentiations" that it would upset tariff revision of import tariffs

That it would stimulate speculation and manipulation, and finally bring in many farmers and shipping the more farmers into plan

Mansfield Aroused Over Dry Agent's Shooting of Soft Drink Parlor Owner

Investigations Under Way by Both State and County Authorities, Crowd Congregates Outside Jail Where Officer Is Held Without Bond

BULLETIN

MANSFIELD, April 22—State Prohibition Agent F C McGaw Toledo who Saturday shot and wounded Frank Pellegi soft drink parlor proprietor during a raid pleaded not guilty when arraigned in Squire R D Nichols court here this morning

Bond was not arranged as the dry agent was bound over to common pleas court upon his own request after he had waived preliminary examination This step, in reality binds the matter over to the Richland county grand jury allowing the common pleas court to fix the amount of the bond

MANSFIELD April 22— While authorities remained uncommunicative public sentiment mounted here today against State Prohibition Agent F C McGaw of Toledo who early Saturday night shot and wounded Frank Pellegi soft drink parlor proprietor and father of six small children after the man allegedly sold a drink to him

Feeling was reported intense last night. A group of more than 100 men congregated outside of the county jail where McGaw was being held without bond pending official disposition of the shooting The crowd was kept moving by armed deputies Other crowds collected on downtown corners and discussed the wounding of Pellegi Sentiment was especially strong in the foreign settled sections of the city, and in the Italian quarter

According to reports McGaw entered the soft drink parlor of Pellegi and asked for a 'shot' Pellegi is alleged to have poured a small quantity of liquor into a wine glass McGaw told him to 'fill it up' and the Italian complied but ordered McGaw to 'drink it here

Sheriff Arrests Agent

McGaw however cupped his hand over the top of the glass and began backing towards the door Pellegi is reported to have demanded where McGaw was going The dry agent, who kept backing toward the door, is said to have replied I am an officer

Pellegi according to the agent's story began to advance all the while holding his right hand behind his back When the proprietor came within four feet of the agent, McGaw is reported to have drawn a pistol and fired the bullet entering Pellegi's chest

A few moments later Sheriff P A Schad arrived, as was prearranged The sheriff was to have arrested Pellegi if McGaw was successful in obtaining evidence When Sheriff Schad became acquainted with the facts he arrested McGaw and ordered him held in jail without bond

Victim May Recover

W J Lewis, another state prohibition officer made a preliminary investigation of the shooting, and notified State Director H H Beethem both refused to discuss the case

Sheriff Schad started another separate probe He declared he had searched the soft drink parlor and that he did not find any weapon He refused to disclose however whether any liquor had been found in the establishment

Pellegi's wife was in a rear room when the shooting occurred

The shooting climaxed two other raids made by Sheriff Schad McGaw and L C Cullison of Coshocton The other raids were conducted without violence

About a year ago Pellegi's home here was raided but no liquor was found

Pellegi is in a local hospital in a serious condition Though his condition was reported improved this morning chances for his recovery are in the balance yet

FISHER ANNOUNCES

A Nation-wide System of BODY SERVICE

Fisher Body announces the organization of a new unit, the Fisher Body Service Corporation, to provide a nation-wide system of body service to all owners of General Motors cars.

How vast and far-reaching will be the service rendered by this organization is indicated by the fact that there are today over 23,000 General Motors dealer's service stations throughout the United States.

The system inaugurated by the Fisher Body Service Corporation will be the first centralized, economic and truly efficient body service the industry has yet known. Such a service system is possible of course to General Motors alone, because Fisher Body, the source of bodies for all General Motors cars, is a corporate part of General Motors, which it supplies with bodies year after year—thus being certain always of this great permanent market.

Fisher Body Service makes available to every General Motors car owner everything he may require in the way of body maintenance and rehabilitation, and will enable him to obtain complete service—service for car body as well as car chassis—from one source, his car dealer. Such service as the elimination of body annoyances, the adjusting of tie-down bolts, the periodical dressing of the roof, the lubrication of door lock bolts, door checks and hinges, the cleansing of soiled upholsteries, the bumping of fenders or panels, will now be performed in your dealer's service department

The car owner will be thus freed from the necessity of turning for his car body's maintenance to small shops whose inadequate equipment compels them to charge exorbitant prices, and from which genuine Fisher Body parts are not obtainable.

Now, through General Motors dealers, Fisher Body parts will be supplied at factory list prices wherever and whenever they are required, registering a marked saving to the car owner.

For General Motors dealers—and their mechanics who have been instructed in the care of bodies for more than a year—there have been made available the tools and equipment necessary for actual and immediate service.

Two Fisher Body service schools have been established—one in Detroit, one in Oakland, California—where thousands of General Motors men will be trained. The Fisher Body Service Corporation has also established Parts Depots at these points where complete stocks of genuine Fisher Body parts for General Motors cars are held ready for immediate shipment upon order of General Motors dealers.

Fisher Body considers the inauguration of this nation-wide Fisher Body service a vital, progressive contribution to the public, especially because of the immensely increased interest which owners are manifesting everywhere in body beauty, body comfort and body durability. 530

CLASSES WOMEN AS HAVING MOST NERVE

They're Braver Than Men, Veteran Marion Dentist Declares

he can have a set of store-teeth manufactured. One person in Dr. Raffensperger's chair had 28 teeth extracted at one sitting. Nerve?

"Women are game in submitting to pain, and have more will power than men," is the exact statement of the doctor, taken in shorthand by the reporter so that here would be no chance of any of it being left out.

Isn't it glorious, women of Marion, to be able to look your shrinking husband in the eye and tell him that he's "afraid" to go to the dentist, to know that he is running a bluff when he asserts the pain is letting up and that he's staying at home with the hot water bottle, because he's "afraid."

One of Marion's longest-practicing dentists has said that women are brave, and now watch the women boldly set forth for the appointment, nauseated at the thought of that dreadful chair, but telling hubby all the time that she's not afraid, for didn't Dr. Raffensperger say himself that women submit to pain more fearlessly than men.

Since he came here in 1882, Marion's dentist-weatherman — he's the city's official recorder of the weather—has watched the change from gold teeth to gold crowns and at last to the neat appearing porcelain fillings modern dentists are now using.

Dr. Raffensperger, who is now 69 years old, can remember that when he first started his practice it was common to see whole mouths full of gleaming, gold teeth, testifying to the opulence and bad taste of the owner.

Era of Crowns

Then came the era of crowns. Everyone, no matter how sound his or her teeth, had to have a gold crown, preferably in front. He recalls one girl who had all her teeth, except one, ground off and crowned. Be rather hard to look at if her mouth were open and the sun shining.

Today, men and women, boys and girls and even small children, take pleasure in the whiteness of their teeth. At present the doctor is removing several gold fillings and replacing them with porcelain for one of his customers.

Dr. Raffensperger is in some cases, taking care of the teeth of children who are of the third generation of families he worked for when he was practicing here early in the '80's.

Characteristics in teeth are handed down from one generation to another, according to the doctor.

In 1880 Marion's veteran dentist graduated from the University of Pennsylvania, and for two years practiced in Philadelphia and his vicinity. Then his father, the late Dr. E. P. Raffensperger, was sent to take over the First Presbyterian church here and moved to this city with his family.

For five years, from 1882, Dr. Raffensperger practiced dentistry in the offices now occupied by John H. Clark, local attorney. He was the first man to have offices in the Fisher building, in about the same location as those of Dr. A. A. Starner. These rooms he occupied for the next five years.

Location for 35 Years

At the end of that time, Harry True, prominent in banking circles in the city, bought the lot at the corner of West Center and Prospect sts. and erected the building occupied until recently by Kleinmaier Bros. clothing store. There Dr. Raffensperger plied his profession for 35 years, getting a keen insight into the history of Marion's people and the city's daily life.

Today, the dentist can recall vividly, interesting stories in the lives of men and women who today are considered the staid, quiet background of Marion's social life.

Dr. Dessie Thompson, who formerly lived in the brick house at the corner of Oak and West Center sts., and who now has a thriving dental trade in Columbus, received her early start in this profession under Dr. Raffensperger.

Two years ago the dentist moved to a three-room office next door to his home, and there is taking care of new patients every day and doing the dental work for many who have been coming to him since he opened his office back in '82.

There is one part of dentistry which the doctor will not do any more. It has completely gotten the best of his nerves, and except in rare cases, he will not extract teeth. Rather than watch patients suffer the pain of extraction, he sends them to a dentist friend up town. It hurts him just as much any more to pull a tooth as it does the patient to have it pulled, he says.

Extensive Record

During his years of practice, he has seen thousands upon thousands of mouths filled with teeth in all conditions and no condition at all, and once he saw a diamond supposed to be used as a filling.

There was a Marion woman, who wished to follow the style of diamond set teeth, and the story of her difficulties is worth paying to hear.

For more than 35 years, the doctor has acted as Marion's weatherman, and some of the true experiences he tells in connection with this office are worth writing a book about.

There is no remuneration for this work as weather observer, but it is done merely out of a keen interest in the apparatus and general study of the weather instruments that Dr. Raffensperger enjoys.

HOOVER HITS LAX LAW ENFORCEMENT

President Urges Editors To Back His Drive for Observance

zens yet this is but one segment of our problem. I have purposely cited the extent of murder, burglary, robbery, forgery and embezzlement, for but a small percentage of these can be attributed to the Eighteenth amendment. In fact, of the total number of convictions for felony last year, less than eight per cent came from that source. It is therefore but a sector of the invasion of lawlessness."

Indirectly, however, the executive came back to the prohibition problem when he asserted that "no individual has the right to determine what law shall be obeyed and what law shall not be enforced."

Enforcement Not Debatable

"If a law is wrong," he said, "its rigid enforcement is the surest guaranty of its repeal. If it is right, its enforcement is the quickest method of compelling respect for it.

"Whatever the value of any law may be, the enforcement of that law written in plain terms upon our statute books is not, in my mind, a debatable question. Law should be observed and must be enforced until it is repealed by the proper processes of our democracy. The duty to enforce the law rests upon every public official and the duty to obey it rests upon every citizen."

The revitalizing of the law-enforcement agencies, President Hoover said, should be undertaken through systematic constructive building. He condemned "dramatic displays and violent attacks in order to make headlines" and he attacked the practice of "violating the law itself through misuse of the law in its enforcement."

Offers Suggestions

In coming to the press of the nation for aid, he had several specific suggestions. He asked the newspapers, of course, to unite in appealing to the finer sensibilities of the people, but he also had some ideas on the manner in which news stories should be played.

"I wonder sometimes," he declared, "if perhaps a little more support to our laws could not be given in one direction. If, instead of the glamor of romance and heroism, which our American imaginative minds too frequently throw around those who break the law, we should invest with a little romance and heroism those thousands of our officers who are endeavoring to enforce the law it would itself decrease crime. Praise and respect for those who properly enforce the laws and daily condemnation of those who defy would help. Perhaps a little better proportioned balance of news concerning those criminals who are convicted and punished would serve to instill the fear of the law."

Makes Short Visit

President Hoover ventured away from Washington today for the first formal speech of his White House incumbency. He left Washington for New York this morning to attend the annual luncheon given to newspaper editors of the country by the Associated Press.

Shortly before 6 o'clock this morning his special train pulled out of Union Station, Washington. Only a small party accompanied him, including Mrs. Hoover, Secretary George Akerson, Dr. Joel T. Boone, Miss Ann G. Shaukey, one of the White House stenographers, and the usual secret service operatives, newspaper men and photographers.

Mr. Hoover's stay in New York was to be of the briefest. He arrived just in time for lunch, and he planned to depart for the capital again immediately upon conclusion of his speech.

That the executive had a message he wanted to reach the country in extensive fashion was indicated by the arrangements made for the relaying of it from the luncheon hall. To begin with, after turning down scores of other invitations, Mr. Hoover picked an assembly of newspaper editors for his first speech. In addition, a nationwide hook-up was arranged, and the newsreel companies were asked to record the speech in talking pictures.

on old fears and old suspicions, there is little hope of disarmament.

"If we are honest, if our solemn promise in the (Kellogg) pact means anything there is no justification for the continuation of a war-taxed peace. Great armaments are but the relic of another age, but they will remain a necessary relic until the present deadlock is broken and that can be accomplished only by the decision of the powers possessing the greatest armaments to initiate measures of reduction.

"Timid Expedient"

"In the opening statement at the three-power naval conference (America, England and Japan) in 1927, I took occasion, in suggesting certain tonnage levels as a basis of comparison, to say that the United States is prepared to agree to a plan for limitation at still lower levels which maintain the relative status of existing treaties. This is still the attitude of my government, and I am authorized to say that on this basis we are willing to agree to any reduction, however drastic, of naval tonnage which leaves no type of war vessel unrestricted."

Gibson pointed out that most of the suggestions advanced since the Washington conference have been of such a nature as to sanction existing armaments, and in some cases actually increases them, which he characterized as "only a timid expedient."

AMERICA'S recent usury debauch, pleasant for money lenders, worries the national treasury, considerably.

One result has been a drop of $500,000,000 in the value of government bonds, of which more than eleven billions are outstanding.

The government worries also about the interest price it will pay on new financing.

Months of profitable usury, stimulated by the Federal Reserve, and unchecked by any government agency, have destroyed the bankers' appetite for low-rate government bonds.

In his book, "My Industrial Philosophy," published by Coward-McCann, in New York, Henry Ford says government should issue money instead of issuing bonds, then retire the new currency as it would retire the bonds. The government's money thus issued would call for no interest payment. It would be as good as government bonds, for it would carry the government's promise to pay, which constitutes all of a bond's value.

"Inflation" and "fiat money" and a dozen other arguments would be given by bankers that are no sound objection to putting the country on a basis of usury.

THE navy asks for two new battleships, to cost fifty million dollars. They would be two nice targets for foreign airmen, if we had a war. But the country can afford them, and navy men, disinclined to fly, or dive in submarines, must have some place to walk up and down.

Fast cruisers have their use, to harass enemy commercial shipping, or blockade enemy ports, airmen and submarines permitting.

But of what use is a battleship? No use was made of Europe's dreadnaughts in the big war, with airplanes and submarines not yet half developed. In the next war they would be camouflaged and hidden behind commercial ships, as were Britain's dreadnaughts last time.

DEBENTURE PLAN IS KILLED BY HOOVER

President Cracks Whip Over Congress and Wins First Battle

upon which there is now general agreement.

Must Take Responsibility

The backers of the debenture plan, however, manage to extract one bit of comfort out of the situation—they had forced Mr. Hoover to assume the responsibility for killing the plan, and to accept corresponding responsibility for the bill that will be enacted.

It was a responsibility which Mr. Hoover did not want to assume. For the past five weeks there has been incessant sparring between Capitol Hill and the White House over who was to take up the axe "to kill cock robin." Mr. Hoover insisted that the senate committee itself do the job. But the committee didn't relish it—not with he farm organizations standing over them with a political club poised and waiting. So eventually Mr. Hoover had to do it himself.

The result, of course, is that when the farm bill emerges from congress it will bear indelibly, the White House stamp. Therefore, Mr. Hoover assumes responsibility for its success or failure.

If It Works

If it works everything will be politically lovely for the administration and for the farmers. If it doesn't work, that is something else again. *If it doesn't work, the farm organi*zations that backed the debenture plan will be in a position to say "We told you so" and to exact such political retribution as they are capable of.

In any event, Mr. Hoover has "killed cock robin" and the responsibility is, in view of his letter, inescapably his.

Scoffs at Idea That Housework Is Hard Hers Now Very Easy

MRS. LEMPI KOYALA
Mrs. Lempi Koyala, 557½ Peerler Avenue, Warren, Ohio, may be of an unusually happy disposition because of her new found health, for, of course, that goes a long way toward making housework easy, but her advice is so sensible that even the most discouraged should find comfort.
Mrs. Koyala urges every woman who does not feel well to try Nu-Erb. She says:
"My health was so poor that work was a great effort for me, in fact most times I would get so weak that I was forced to lie down and just let my housework go. Stomach disorders and weakened kidneys were the cause of most of my distress. I suffered continually from indigestion and gas formations after meals. I had a dull aching pain across my back all of the time and I'd get such severe dizzy spells that I'd have to hold on to something for fear of falling. I awakened each morning with a severe splitting headache that almost drove me wild.
"Since taking Nu-Erb I am feeling like a different women and my housework is now a genuine pleasure. I am able to work all day long without tiring or feeling in any way distressed. This medicine has entirely stopped my stomach and kidney disorders and I am no longer troubled with gas, backache or those awful headaches. I will cheerfully recommend this medicine to anyone who suffers from these troubles."
Stump & Sams Pharmacy, 121 S. Main St., is the only place in Marion where Nu-Erb may be purchased.—Adv.

Thus far the revolt down there has cost the government of Mexico $15,000,000. It's hard to understand why the revolutionists couldn't have chosen some way of getting wiped out less expensive to the tax-payers.

And now a New York court has closed the latest night club in which "little" Texas Guinan put on her specialty of entertaining suckers. It's a cold, unfeeling world which thus refuses recognition to genius.

The United States senate judiciary committee has decided that Secretary Mellon's right to hold his portfolio is established, a decision in the reaching of which it was ably assisted by the press of the land, which, it is good to say, has made manifest that it has become sick and tired of the playing of politics by members of the upper house of congress.

Another blow at high art. The principal of the Neptune High school of Ocean Park, New Jersey, has decreed that the girl chorus in the school musical comedy, "Kathleen," must wear bloomers or there will be no show, and he is backed up by the school board.

While the Canadian house of commons recently supported Speaker Lo Mieux, who ordered house messengers to tote no more liquor in to house members, they have since named an official "liquor steward," who is to see that no member suffers from thirst. Guarded by Invisible Rays.

Twenty years ago the public would have scoffed at the proposal to guard treasure by invisible rays, yet such is to be the method followed when a priceless collection of silver and historical relics is put on exhibition May 1 at Seaford House in Belgrave square, London, the property of Lord and Lady de Walden, in aid of a London hospital.

The "radivisor," as the invention is called in a London cable, is an arrangement of electrical currents which will act as hidden guardians. The apparatus is so arranged that invisible rays will go out from different hidden places in the room so that the exhibit will be entirely surrounded by a barrier which nothing can pass without sounding alarms all over the premises. Whenever any one, or any thing, passes the barrier, the current is broken and the alarms are sounded. In fact, all doors and windows into the treasure room are to be thus guarded as an additional precaution, and the floor and ceiling will be guarded in the same way. A mouse could not come from a hole in the floor or a bird fly down from the ceiling above without breaking the current and sounding the alarm.

And thus the war goes on—the war of defense for the protection of valuables and that of offense by the underworld. Yesterday the defensive was in the ascendency. Today the criminal world may have found the answer, the solution of the defensive strategy. The day after, another barrier of defense may be erected. Who knows? Possibly the criminal world may learn how to break through this latest defense of invisible rays, but it will not learn speedily, for criminals, any and all beliefs to the contrary, are not giants mentally. If they get the answer, it will probably be through corruption—the corruption of somebody on "the inside," or the corruption of some scientific mind.

How Public's Money Is Burned.

The shameful manner in which the money of the taxpayers is burned up on junketing trips was brought out, last week, during the grand jury investigation of the alleged misuse of public funds by those in charge of the Chicago sanitary district, when Arthur Mathiesen, who at the time was officially known as the private secretary to President Timothy J. Crowe, of the district, told the story of a trip to Washington and New York made in 1927 by the trustees of the district and their friends.

Ostensibly, the trip was made that the trustees might attend the flood control conference in Washington, and a few of them were in attendance at one of the sessions for about an hour and a half, but, according to Mathiesen the real purpose was to attend to Army-Notre Dame football game in New York City. To that end, the trustees chartered a special train, the railroad fares of the trip aggregating $14,200, loaded it with their friends and with champagne and other liquors and started for the East amid the popping of corks.

Following the short stop in Washington, which was sufficiently long to permit the movie camera people to take the pictures of the leaders of the junketing party, the train went on to New York for the big game.

Unfortunately for the Windy City delegation, its money went on Notre Dame, which was shut out, while the Army ran up a score of twenty-one. The grief the junketeers suffered as a result of placing alike their faith and their money on the team destined to lose, may possibly explain their subsequent actions as described by Mathiesen. First they visited a number of night clubs, where drinks were had and flowers purchased for the various hostesses who had been very gracious to them, the purchases of drinks and flowers alike, it was testified, being at public expense. Returning to the Waldorf-Astoria, where the delegation was registered, during the early hours of Sunday morning, somebody suggested that they stage a bombing party. Mathiesen does not so say, but possibly the idea was to arouse a "homey" feeling. In any event, they removed electric bulbs from the fixtures in their rooms and wherever they could find them in the hallways and proceeded to bomb the hotel passageways by exploding them against doors and walls. Bulbs exhausted, they returned to their rooms, threw chairs and dresser drawers out of the hotel windows and raised whoopee generally, which explains the hotel bill of $6,000.

We are wondering if, had the story of this Chicago junketing party become public before such action was taken, the Ohio general assembly would have had the nerve to appropriate $25,000, as it did, to pay the expenses of the Ohio junketing party to Europe next fall.

France has barred the Fascist newspapers, "Impero" and "Il Tevere," of Rome, from her boundaries, which is another way of administering to Mr. Mussolini a bit of his own medicine.

Wanted for the killing of Police Chief Ewing, of Hamilton, Pennsylvania, two years ago while that officer was trying to prevent a silk robbery, Ernest Stabler, twenty-three, was captured in Brooklyn by Detective George Campbell, who had trailed him 49,000 miles over a period of twenty-two months. Four others have been jailed for six months in connection with the crime. The arm of the law is long.

Commenting on the recent acquittals of two night club hostesses in that city, a writer says that the future of the dry law in New York City appears dubious. And here we have been thinking all along that the citizenship of New York had absolutely rejected it.

Irene Dalton has been granted a divorce from Lloyd Hamilton, charged by her with staging "wild drinking parties." Even Irene should be willing to admit that tame drinking parties would hardly appeal to the gay life of Hollywood.

The Missouri house of representatives has voted to postpone indefinitely consideration of a referendum directing the governor to ask congress for a national referendum on repeal of the eighteenth amendment, which precludes the possibility of Missouri being shown, at least during the present legislative session out there.

Senator Gerald P. Nye, of North Dakota, wants a government radio station to broadcast the proceedings of congress. Who knows? Maybe Gerald plans to carry out that long-delayed promise to give to the world the outcome of the examination of a certain estate in the hunt for those missing oil bonds.

A device has been perfected to make possible the discovery of coming steel breaks, but, judging by newspaper reports, the crying need of the times is for some way to make possible the discovery of contemplated jail breaks before they happen.

Public improvements amounting to $500,000,000 are lying dormant in Chicago because of the failure of bond issues due in large part to the electorate's lack of confidence in the city administration. Even "Big Bill" Thompson must question, at times, the worth of that famous "America First" slogan in his campaign against King George.

Being informed by the Right Rev. Christopher E. Byrne, bishop of Galveston, that participation in the international beauty contest to be held down there was unbecoming to a lady and that she would have to parade before crowds while clad only in a bathing suit, Miss Lachslas, of Warsaw, selected to represent Poland, has announced her withdrawal from the contest. The bishop may have made himself persona non grata with the contest management, but regardless of that he told the Polish beauty the absolute truth.

A SINGLE CLUB PLAYER.

"Live Moderately."

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Frequently I am asked: "How in the world do you think of things about which to write?" To one who has not had the experience, it seems a difficult task to find subjects for health articles.

But really, it isn't difficult. One source of information is the public press. There is hardly an issue of a newspaper that hasn't an article about something with a health angle.

For instance, as I write, I have on my lap the current number of a Washington paper. On the front page is an interview with John D. Rockefeller, Sr. Among other things, I find these wise words from the wealthy sage: "I live moderately and I chew my food thoroughly."

There are a dozen articles in that statement. But the paper has more. On page ten of the paper is the pronouncement of a well-known French surgeon, who says: "Criminals are nothing less than sick people." We must prevent crime, he states; we must "escape this state of barbarism in which men are living like primitive fatalists, believing that crime is as inevitable as thunder or an earthquake." Splendid!

Let us return to Mr. Rockefeller's interview: "My health is good. My heart is all right; it gives me no trouble. I live moderately and I chew my food thoroughly. I have many friends. I have learned to enjoy life and I am happy. I thank God for the blessings He has bestowed upon me."

Please note what he does not say: "I have great wealth. I am one of the richest men in the world. I can dine sumptuously every day."

When he counts his blessings, Mr. Rockefeller names only the things that each of us can have. He did not think of money, beyond a pocketful of bright silver dimes.

He thought of health and friendships. These make it possible for him to enjoy life and to be happy.

In many things I have not always agreed with this famous man. But in this philosophy of life I am in fullest accord.

Good health is better than great riches and friends are more precious than spun gold. If one were to follow the teachings of a single sentence of this interview he would find it to contain the essence of good health.

The law of health is this:

To live moderately and to chew the food thoroughly.

Then you will be well and cheerful, will make friends easily, and you, too, can enjoy life.

Woe to them that devise iniquity, and work evil upon their beds! They covet fields, and take them by violence; and houses, and take them away: so they oppress a man and his house. Therefore thus saith the Lord: Behold, against this family do I devise an evil.—Micah 2:1, 2, 3.

Editorial Opinion.

THE FORD COMPANY IN 1928.

The year-end balance-sheet of the Ford Motor company, as submitted under the Massachusetts law to that state's commissioner of corporations, is the one source of official information about the course of the company's earnings. The statement for 1928, published yesterday, is of singular interest for the light it throws on financial results to date of Mr. Ford's remarkable experiment. In altering his whole mechanical plant during 1927 to provide for a new model, and in suspending production for fully half a year while making the change, an immense loss of earnings was necessarily involved. A year ago the profit and loss surplus in the statement of December 31, 1927, showed decrease for that year of $42,786,000. Production was resumed at the beginning of 1928, though not on the old-time scale, but the output was known to have increased gradually from 1,500 cars per day in March to about 6,400 in December. The December figure considerably exceeded the best average daily achievement of the company's previous record, that of 1924, but it left in doubt the results for last year as a whole.

That point is settled by yesterday's balance-sheet for December 31, 1928, which reports further reduction in the company's surplus by no less a sum than $72,221,000. That is to say, conversion of the Ford plant into shape for production of the new Model A has thus far actually cost the company $115,000,000. It has reduced the surplus of the figure at which it must have stood in the middle of 1925. In an ordinary enterprise this would be considered a disastrous showing. But the Ford Motor company was not in the ordinary class; during its years of spectacular achievement, between 1921 and 1927, the surplus had increased $315,000,000. It stood at $607,637,000 at the end of 1926, and stands now at $582,629,000.

Since the present year's output of new Ford cars, according to an estimate by the company itself last December, will equal the largest previous annual output, the surplus reported a year from now will have exceptional interest. The largest annual profit in its past history, derived from the twelve months ended with February, 1923, was $110,286,000. But the price of cars and the volume of production by competing companies were very different then. In particular, the field once all but monopolized by the Ford has subsequently been invaded by powerful and prosperous new producing plants, especially during the period of suspended Ford output. The question is further complicated by the two considerations which have thus far baffled every effort at prediction in that industry—where, if anywhere, will the "saturation point" be reached in the motor-car market as a whole, and what influence would be exerted by a change in speculative activities or trade prosperity?—New York Times, April 16.

RACKETEERS CAN BE CONVICTED.

Sixteen members and officials of the Chicago Candy Jobbers' association have been convicted in the federal court on the charge of conspiring to restrain trade in violation of the Sherman act. They are accused of using terroristic methods against storekeepers whose methods of doing business did not meet with the association's approval. That is to say, they were accused of racketeering.

The conviction is a wholesome one and may serve as a warning to similar associations which impose their will upon small merchants by bombs, slugging, and threat to bomb and slug. It reflects no credit upon the prosecuting authorities of Cook county that the conviction was obtained by federal action in the federal court. The men found guilty no doubt violated the federal statutes, but their offense, essentially, was against the peace of the state of Illinois and it is in the courts of Illinois that they should have been called to account first.

The conviction does prove, beyond doubt, that evidence of racketeering can be obtained if there is the will to obtain it, and that convictions can be had on the evidence. It is announced that the government will next proceed against members of the painters' district council on somewhat similar charges. The vigorous prosecution of racketeering cases in the state as well as the federal courts would make Chicago an unwholesome place for bombers, gunmen and sluggers, as well as for the parasites who live off them.—Chicago Tribune.

Dinner Stories.

The young novelist just had his first book published and was somewhat excited when a newspaper reporter called to see him.

"You've called to get a story of how I did it?"

"No—why you did it."

New York Day by Day.

New York, April 22—Diary of a modern Pepys: Lay late and with my wife to a millinery shop where the bonnets were hidden away and it seemed more a drawing room. Away and it seemed more a drawing room. So with Courtney Ryley Cooper and Irvin Cobb to the circus and talked to Lillian Leitzel and also some of the clowns.

Home to work and to a matinee, the first in years, and so mixed up coming out in the dusk I walked five blocks out of the way and had to ask a policeman where I was. Visited with Ray Rohn, the Philadelphia linner, a while at his hotel, and back to my lodgings.

In the evening with my wife to a dinner party at Roy Howard's and Joan Lowell, the young authoress reared on her father's windjammer, burlesqued some exotic dances of the South Sea island with Jack Dempsey interpreting the virginial young man with a white flower behind his ear, very amusing. New York's swift tempo frequently demands pathetic sacrifices. An energetic young banker whose enthusiastic devotion to his job lifted him to the presidency of one of New York's largest banks at thirty-five has never occupied the post. It was befittingly urbane and would have been understood just as well by most of the audiences if spoken in Hindustani. At the cross roads such stuff is "hokum." New Theory of the World.

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS.

Nothing concerning the fascinating subject of astronomy seems more attractive to thoughtful readers than the various hypotheses and theories that have been invented during the last three centuries to explain the origin and development of our solar system. For a long time Laplace's famous "nebular hypothesis" held the field, but within some fifty years the point of view of cosmogonists has gradually changed, until now the front rank is held by the "planetesimal hypothesis" of Chamberlin and Moulton. This introduces the idea of a catastrophic encounter between our sun in an earlier state of its existence and another star, the result being an outgush and scattering of matter from the sun, which, after being thrown into spiral orbits around its parents mass eventually fell together into the form of planets.

But, in both the Laplacean and the Planetesimal speculation there remains an unexplained peculiarity, which may be the clue to still another theory waiting for development, or at least an important modification of existing theories. This peculiarity consists in the remarkable division of the sun's system of planets into two widely different types, called usually the "inner" and the "Outer" planets. Our earth is chief member of the "Inner" group; Jupiter of the "Outer" group.

Now it has generally been assumed that both planetary groups had a similar origin, whether from breaking rings of nebulous matter as Laplace supposed, or from the falling together of planetesimals according to Chamberlin's ideas. Only now and then did somebody incidentally remark that there seemed to be something a little mysterious about this curious existence of widely contrasted bodies in the sun's family, the members of each type being collected together, in separate regions.

Upon this mystery, George Parson undertakes to throw light in his book, just published, called "Discovery of the Earth." Here Mr. Parson, after presenting a highly-interesting summary of cosmogonical speculations from Kepler to Kant, from Buffon to Laplace, and from Laplace to the latest theories, suggests a "New Cosmogony," in which the "inner" planets—Mercury, Venus, Earth and Mars—appear as "the four dwarfs," and the "Outer" planets—Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus and Neptune—as "the four giants;" the former being regarded as true satellites of the sun, which originated during the contraction of the central body—sun—once extending out beyond the present orbit of Mars, while the latter had their origin in "solar tidal objections produced at a remote period in the sun's existence by the near approach of another celestial object of large mass."

Thus we are presented with a combination of the Laplacean and the planetesimal hypotheses. Both are true, each in its own field. The four small, near, planets were developed from the contracting mass of the sun as it shrank from a diameter as great as, or greater than, that of Betelgeuse to its present size. And, but for an accident, in an encounter with the body massive enough to disturb the internal equilibrium of the sun, our system would have always remained what it was at the beginning—a solitary sun with its little family of self-generated planets, keeping close under its wing as it wandered through space at a speed of about twelve miles per second.

But this wandering—a peculiarity that all the heavenly bodies share—led to a catastrophe. The sun with its little family nearly ran into another body, perhaps more massive than itself. Their gravitational strain upon one another produced enormous ejections, probably from both, and from this ejected matter, the great, outer planets were formed. They are not, then, true brothers of the earth; they are interlopers, their birth was different, their blood may be largely alien, their individual characters are widely divergent from those of the true satellite children of the sun.

Such is a brief, partial outline of this interesting addition to cosmogonic speculation. For details read the book.—Copyright, 1928, International Features Service, Inc.

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

Thousands of men and women, especially in the larger cities, disappear each year. They leave home, leaving little evidence by which to trace them. Why? Some come back. Some never do. Why? The San Francisco police department has been making an investigation of the reasons people depart from home. The findings are interesting:

"Men leave home to forget family trouble or to dodge domestic responsibilities. They often go to, with, or from a woman.

"Women leave home when they find a new love.

"Boys leave to seek adventure and romance.

"Girls leave to escape routine or discipline.

"Police records on which the deductions are based, disclosed that 239 men, women and children, who left San Francisco in 1927 are still missing. Altogether, 1,153 persons disappeared there.

"Many of those who disappeared left notes saying they were going to commit suicide. Most of them didn't."

Six high school students in Jacksonville, Florida, are sent home for wearing "sun back" dresses. In Florida it is considered reasonably proper, and altogether beneficial, to expose as much of the body to the health giving rays of the sun as possible. The superintendent of public instruction says he does not consider the dresses immodest. The high school dean differs with him, and tells the girls not to come back until they are dressed differently.

Somebody says it is a changed world. That seems to answer every question. Perhaps it is not an answer. In some ways it does seem to change at all. It just swings around and around. These sun back dresses, of a few thousand years ago, would have been thought unnecessarily enveloping. Day before yesterday skirts were long. Go back a little further and they were short. Well, well.

Score Dead as Freak Storms Sweep Lower Mississippi

HEAVIEST TOLL IS TAKEN IN ARKANSAS

Eleven Negroes Lose Lives at Tillar When Tornado Strikes Town

FLOODS ADD TO HORROR

Conditions Along Mississippi Growing Critical, Reports Reveal

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., April 22—More than a score dead, hundreds injured and property damage that may total a half million dollars, was the toll today of a series of freak windstorms which swept sections of five lower Mississippi valley states late yesterday.

The heaviest toll of life was taken at Tillar, Ark., 90 miles southeast of Little Rock. Eleven negroes are known to have been killed outright by a tornado that cut a swath 150 yards wide through a plantation near the town. Three white children were seriously injured.

The tornadic disturbances originated in northeastern Texas and spread famlike over Oklahoma, Arkansas and Louisiana, later dipping into sections of Missouri, Mississippi and Kansas.

Add to Horror

Four negroes were reported killed near Dahomey, Miss., with hundreds of others injured.

Floods over much of the storm devastated area added to the horror and were responsible for several scattered casualties. Storms and floods together are said to have taken seven lives in Texas, Oklahoma and Arkansas, in addition to those killed at Tillar.

Ten persons were injured at Bolivar, Mo., and in the immediate vicinity. One man was reported killed at Reese, Kansas. Many buildings were demolished in the rural sections of Kansas, with several persons reported seriously injured.

Flood Conditions Critical

An accurate check on the casualties and the extent of the devastation will be impossible until wire communications over the stricken area have been restored.

Flood conditions on the Mississippi are growing critical from Memphis, Tenn., northward to Cairo, Ill., according to reports received here. Hundreds of laborers are working to strengthen the levees. A few minor crevasses in the dikes have already caused inundation of thousands of acres of cotton and corn lands.

The country was drenched with rain from Texas northward to the Great lakes and eastward to the Appalachian mountains. In many communities roads were under water and rail transportation slowed up.

Fire Department of 4 Men Grows to 27 Since Chief McFarland Took Charge

Editor's Note—This is the second of a serits of articles prepared to give Marion citizens a closer acquainiance with their city officials. The plan is to include all municipal officials and employes in the series.

T. J. McFARLAND will round out his twenty-sixth year as chief of the Marion fire department in July, or his thirty-third year as a member of the city's fire fighting squad.

Over a quarter of a century as chief, working 24 hours a day, without a vacation for the last 10 years makes the job rather confusing, the chief agrees, but "it isn't so bad if you're interested in the work."

The years have not been wasted years for Chief McFarland, for he has seen the department grow from four men with inadequate equipment in a small station to a three-station department fully equipped with 27 men on the job.

T. J. McFARLAND

Native of Marion

Chief McFarland is a native of Marion and has always lived and worked here. He was born on Feb. 19, 1871, and after his schooling here spent 10 years as a machinist at the Huber Manufacturing Co. plant.

In 1896 he married Miss Margaret Moloney, who then resided in Prospect township. Mr. and Mrs. McFarland are the parents of six children. They are: Mrs. Mary Strasser, of Upper Sandusky; Dr. Joseph Dean McFarland, a professor in a Cincinnati seminary; Raymond McFarland, an employe of the Smart & Waddell shoe store; Dorothy, a bookkeeper at Warner & Edwards Co. store, Harry T. McFarland, who will graduate from the University of Medicine at St. Louis in June, and Miss Madeline McFarland, who is now taking nurse's training in the Good Samaritan hospital at Cincinnati.

Association Head

The climax of his fire-fighting days was reached by Chief McFarland when he was named president of the State Firemen's association near the year 1910. Last year he was elected president again, giving him his second term.

Chief McFarland not only must assume charge of the various fires reported to the station, but must also supervise the maintenance of approximately 35 miles of private wire, connecting the 70 fire alarm boxes over the city.

The fire bell in the tower of the main station has not rung for 10 years, Chief McFarland says. When the bell was rung in former years throngs of fire-followers would learn the location of the fire and would sometimes interfere with equipment in traffic in an attempt to reach the scene.

No Serious Mishaps

Chief McFarland has never lost a man in a fire nor have any been seriously injured. Firemen are expected to be able to do efficient work on 75-foot ladders, and practices to enable them to work on the ladders will begin soon.

"The first 50 feet are the hardest," the chief said. "After you get up above 50 feet, height doesn't mean anything until you are well past 75 feet."

The first motor trucks were purchased here in 1912 and in the next four years all equipment was motor operated.

PICTURES, symbols, table appointments and the artistic arrangements of the season's flowers transformed the home of Mrs. P. H. Johnson, 435 South Prospect st., into the setting of a Russian dwelling, when members of the Literature Study club entertained at their annual guest day party Saturday afternoon at the Johnson home. Mrs. Johnson, who is a native of Russia, received her guests attired in the costume of her country, assisted by Misses Elizabeth Morgan, Gene Verbera, Arlouine Heuney and Florence Sweney, whose costumes, fashioned in harmony with that of the hostess, added to the colorful atmosphere of the setting. Receiving with Mrs. Johnson was Mrs. C. E. Heuney, president of the club.

Following the welcome of the president the club members and guests were entertained with a delightful talk on home life and customs in Russia, by Mrs. Johnson, who also read an interesting letter on the drama in Russia, from her sister who is residing in Russia. A pleasing feature of the program was a delightfully interpreted piano number, "Melody in F," Rubenstein, by Mrs. C. F. Baker, and a group of charming vocal numbers, "Russian Lullaby" Berlin, "Last Night," Kjerulf, and the Russian National Anthem, Lvoff, sung by Mrs. Earl N. Hale. The piano accompaniments were played by Mrs. Baker. Mrs. Johnson's talk was followed by an informal hour during which the hostess discussed life in Russia in response to a number of questions from the guests.

Following the program Mrs. Johnson presided at tea and the guests enjoyed a social hour.

Guests included Mrs. Henry Yochem, Mrs. M. L. Buckley, Mrs. Glenna Clevenger, Mrs. R. T. Morgan, Mrs. W. S. Anderson, Mrs. Frank H. King, Mrs. S. D. Barlow, Mrs. D. N. Hale, Mrs. E. H. The Forbidden Door

WHAT TERRIBLE EVIL LAY BEHIND ITS MASK?

BY HERMAN LANDON

Slent over and examined the cents Bread sugar meat —all sorts of provisions Fri J un had left the basket the e. n m Naturally he expected to come in and get it. Sue a tremulous speculative gaze iron door It seemed only so to suppose that the b was intended for some one be hut door But John had de- l e did not know who dwelt and his words had carried the truth Viola did not like to he had been deceived Ob was it possible that the c e was merely obeying orders

He interested he as the man who in calm weather rough avalanche or no ava would go about his daily rou a afold and unquestioning without inquiring into the na his duties If so it was pos enough that he had here seen per on to whom the basket was ed and did not know who that was even though he might ain certain suspicions.

In any event it was all very and the stillness of the little h the candle in her hand the shadows into weirdly ed segments gave her a trembly suffocating sensation The little ow flame wavered in a sickly fash n if gasping for air And now saw that the candle she had taken m the mantel happened to be the green candle that had behaved strangely during dinner She looked closely fascinated It was just ordinary candle about half con med with strips of tallow along it In imagination she recon ted the scene—the disappearing and the empty candlestick the or ed flame hanging suspended in the air like a flaming wraith

I had been uneasy and it seemed even more so in this sequestered hall with the magical candle in her hand e muster iron door in front of her Old Winthrops clock ticking eerily in the background There was something chilling something un ll lesome in the atmosphere

She wanted to turn and hurry away but of a sudden her feet seemed rooted to the spot A fascination stronger than her dread held her in an honorable trance

When the candle fluttered in her trembling hand she stared at the iron door Had she heard something or was he only imagining? There was a for a moment somewhere—somehow that was like the flapping of black evil wings in the night. Instinctively she drew back a step then lay still again incapable of thought or motion The door was moving It was swinging outward A face appeared in the opening and it was a face awful to behold A pair of shoulders followed then an arm reached out and a hand clutched the handle of the basket

A lump caught in Viola's throat She was choking She felt as if every drop of blood in her body had turned to ice She was not conscious of making a sound yet she must have done for suddenly the hand paused in the act of lifting the basket from the floor The loathsome face turned up ward A pair of eyes fixed her—dead eyes they seemed to be yet something live and horrible smoldering in their depths stirring her frozen sensibilities into a paroxysm of overwhelming dread

A hand at her throat stifled an outcry The candle dropped from her hand. Darkness Like a huge evil wave it swallowed her A low malevolent laugh sounded close to her ear A clock was striking She was being lifted carried—carried into the awful darkness beyond the forbidden door

Hannan woke to the pealing of Old Winthrop's clock in the next room It was 4 o'clock in the morning He turned over on his side and resolved to his package of respect. His shoulder was not aching so badly although Dr Speck had not been there to dress the wound for a long time After several hours sleep interwoven with dreams of disembodied voices, vanishing candles and a brief but heavenly kiss bestowed by the most wonderful girl who ever had the misfortune to find herself in an entombed house he felt rested and eager for activity

He lighted the candle and stood up A little stiffly and with a wince of pain he put on the dressing gown and dropped Viola Lanes little pistol into his pocket A spell of dizziness came but it passed quickly He moved experimentally across the floor Yes he felt strong enough to make a little tour of investigation at this early hour There was no clear course of action in his mind but he could endure no more idleness

He moved toward the door and then he paused abruptly Somebody was coming He heard footsteps moving straight toward his door and they impressed him in a most curious way

Now the door knob rattled gently Evidently John Breck was taking his duties as bodyguard very lightly for the caller entered without hindrance

Awake Hannan came Horace Peters voice

Come right in Hannan invited He looked down at Peters metallic bed shoes as the little man entered and took a chair

Haven't slept a wink Peters confessed There was a big book under his arm Don't see how anybody can sleep in this place Been awake long

Only a few minutes.

Then you don't mind if I intrude I've got to talk to somebody or I'll go plumb cuckoo Guess what I've been doing to while away the uneasy hours Hannan Reading the encyclopedia Struck something interesting Lend me your ears

He opened the book on his knees and lowered his top heavy head His mismated features were aglow with interest Here we are It has to do with clocks Just listen to this

Peters read while Hannan studied his face with a fixed alert expression Finally in the early stages of clockmaking a mechanism was introduced by which the water as it fell drop by drop turned a little wheel which moved the hands on the face of the dial and so marked the hours Significant eh Hannan

Well it suggests a theory with regard to Old Winthrops clock Hannan admitted gurgedly

You bet it does. And so beautifully simple No winding no trouble of any kind The water keeps dripping and the clock keeps running and it goes on that way till hell freezes over and the water turns to ice The only question is and Peters rubbed his chin in a thoughtful way where does the water come from and what makes it drip?

It's a puzzle said Hannan absently

I've heard" Peters remarked, that in the early days of his experimenting Old Winthrop had an old Swiss clockmaker associated with him That's suggestive, eh?"

Hannan spoke with a note of assertiveness totally different from his usual open and candid manner been Pelly lately?"

"Pelly be damned!" Peters exploded I've done his dirty work long enough—or pretended to do it. As soon as I get out of here—if I ever do—I'm going to tell him politely to go to blazes. I've stood for his bullying long enough I want to call my soul my own once more even if I go to jail for it In his excitement Peters got up and began to pace the floor "That's how I feel Hannan. When my time comes I want to die with a clear conscience As the great Horace once said— But Horace has been a long time dead

So he has Hannan remarked watching the other man's strut like progress across the narrow floor I wonder what Horace thought of creaking shoes.

Eh? Peter stopped and gazed blankly at the young man

It's too bad Hannan paraphrased that old Horace didn't hand down his opinion of creaking shoes to posterity

Peters wagged his head That's a joke I suppose I've lost my sense of humor My funnybone cracked when the roof did They don't wear shoes in Horace's days They wore sandals and sandals don't creak

That was fortunate for them Creaking shoes are awkward things when one is bent on murder Yours creak I notice

Do they I hadn't observed it. Yes come to think of it I guess they do But it makes no difference I'm not bent on murder I'm an honest man—or as honest as I can be with Mallingham dangling the Damocles sword of my dark past over my head Nevertheless I'm a sadly misunderstood man Hannan Old Winthrop misunderstood me You misunderstood me once

Twice Hannan corrected him

Twice The other looked at him narrowly I don't get that Well no matter The avalanche flattened my intellect Lucky it didn't flatten my body too You asked me if I had seen Mallingham No not since last night

Tell me something Peters What is Mallingham looking for

Don't you know

Haven't the faintest idea

Well— Peters leaned about him a little nervously I don't know as we ought to talk about it here Mallingham has ears like a radio And he gets the oddest notions into his head What do you know? He suspects I killed Curry

Really

Preposterous isn't it? Mailing I am hasn't sufficient in so many words but he has done a lot of dark hinting Peters screwed his mottled face into a look of virtuous indignation Just as if I would be capable of a thing like that!

It is ridiculous said Hannan but his voice sounded a little strained Even if you were capable of doing it why should you

Well of course Mallingham has a suspicion that I am double crossing him He's had that suspicion ever since you turned up alive here at Valhalla Notch after I gave him that hair raising story of how you were boiled in acids His logic isn't so bad If I were Mallingham the way he thinks I am my aim would be to grab the stuff behind his back and make for the hill timber

What stuff

The—er—stuff Mallingham is looking for I think Curry knew exactly where it was I have a hunch he knew a way to get around the iron door too So you see if I had been trying to beat Mallingham to it my surest bet would have been to pump Curry for some private information

But Curry wouldn't have told even if he had anything to tell

Not willingly perhaps But there's always a way to make even the most tight mouthed man talk

You mean—torture

Not necessarily Threats and intimidation are enough sometimes. Now Curry was evidently kidnapped in the hall off the library where his wooden cigar was found Some twelve hours later he was murdered

Why wasn't he murdered at once? Because the attacker wanted to try various modes of persuasion on him in the meantime When they failed he had to kill Curry for his own self protection Logical isn't it?

Quite convincing said Hannan I believe your theory is correct Peters

The other man winced a little It isn't my theory he protested It's Mallingham's

Well it seems to fit the case The only thing I can't understand is why pious and counterfeits of that sort would be going on in a house that may crash down over the heads of its occupants any moment Do you know Peters, I have a little theory of my own A partial theory, that is—one that supplements Pelly's As you know I was with Curry as he died He thought I was trying to block his escape, and so he ran a knife into my shoulder

Fret said Peters But you didn't see the murderer did you?

No He came up on me from behind I didn't get the merest glimpse of him

Too bad Hannan Peters took out a handkerchief and wiped something out of his eyes. Now, if you had seen him—

Well I didn't, but I heard him

Heard him Peters stared for a moment

Yes, I heard his footsteps Maybe you have noticed how small things make a big impression at such times. The footsteps— What's the matter with your eyes, Peters?" as the other man again brought his handkerchief into action "Itching?"

"A bit. It's curious——" Peters looked about him uneasily.

"So do mine," said Hannan in a puzzled tone and wiped his eyes.

"Very curious," said Peters. He darted anxious glances in all directions. "I noticed the same thing last night, just before our invisible visitor appeared Funny——".

"Very," said Hannan, "but it probably doesn't mean anything. I was telling you about his footsteps"

Oh, yes, about the footsteps

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M LEWIS

YESTERDAY was Saturday and when I let Jubilee down by the rope in his teeth it was so foggish that I couldn't see him when he had got half ways to the ground I knew by that I reached bottom and had let go of the rope and I had pulled it in and slid it and got into my britches and went down to take care of the slaves and done it and got out with the milk pail the fog was so thick I couldn't see all the way to the barn Then I began to play like I was a steamboat coming across the lake as I blowed my fog horn so that I would not run into anyone when all at once a handful of mud came out of the fog and stopped up my fog horn and almost choked me I ran the rest of the way to the barn spitting like a wild cat and the bunch was all there I dropped the pail and made them all let me look at their hands and the last thing of Tripe had the cleanest right hand and then I looked and saw where he had wiped the mud off of it on his britches and whilst I was getting ready to hand him a punch he stooped over to pick up the milk pail That surprised me so that I waited to see what he would do with it and all at once he got to moving fast and flung it down over my head like a big hat. Then he went away from me like a cannon ball goes away from a gun, but Fanty had snuck over and locked the barn door and when he slammed against the door and it wouldn't open he made a dive and crawled under the cow and got on the far side of her When I went around on the other side to get him he started to crawl back and the cow moved her foot and stepped so close to him that she stepped on his pants and said there so he couldn't get away So we all took turns milking in his ear and down his neck and his hair, and when he began to holler for help, the cow got excited and moved so that he got out. Fanty unlocked the door and the Last Bag of Tripe was going away telling us that he was going in and tell my aunt on us, and he slammed the doors open so hard that he slapped my aunt in the face just as she was coming in to find out what the hollering was about. She reached for one of his ears, but he dodged, and while he was all bent over and going away from her she landed him a kick that sent him on his face, and he jumped up and kept on going and we gave our school yell for the last time I never did see him look so pleased. She went back into the house without making any comments.

Mary Reconsiders Her Threat To Break Off Her Engagement

Mabel was really in earnest in her refusal to go on with her part of the plan. Bruce Gerrard or the whole affair, the shock of Ted's betrayal had been received so recently that she could have resented any attempt to force her decision. But I was really determined not to permit a complete estrangement between her parents which would ruin, as it upset the elaborate plans which he had made for the future and successful disillusionment [illegible] at once with their overseas engagement and the safe return of their own couriers. There was Nola's future to be considered also. I was sure that she'll not realize the almost fanatical attitude of Phillip Veritzen toward the international question

I was surprised and pleased—at one part of the long-distance [illegible] which she had just launched at me. This was her sister's at that George would be so keen about marrying her. He should suddenly become King of Trees, that he would realize that Nola Olina was much better suited for the job than she. It gave me the right answer her ultimatum almost left for a minute or two my use of the only weapon of argument which I knew would intimidate her.

Yes Mary I said smiling my imagination gives me a very vivid picture of the quiet decorum of the court I know if you closet them a glimpse of the temperamental modern young American beneath the mask of queenly dignity But I haven't intention of permitting things to go that far

They'll go no further than they are this second Mary retorted will fully— not so far—for they're going backward from now on

I took my hand from hers as I rose to my feet my face wearing a stern mask with [illegible] yet was not slipping

Very well Mary I said I cannot compel you to do anything But I think you should think very seriously before you commit yourself to a course which may ruin Nola's future

I turned my back and walked toward the door But I had taken only a step or two before Mary's terrified cry reached my ears.

Oh! come back quickly Auntie Madge Tell me what you mean I don't know I can't understand

No you don't and you can't I told her unsmilingly But will you listen quietly and not decide your course until you hear all that I have to say?

Oh! yes yes! she said eagerly "Tell me tell me!

I sat down again and spoke mechanically with my eyes holding hers.

"You know as one better" I began how we met Philip Veritzen in connection with Nola's to Princess Olga He has a reason for his business in—it is nothing else—which I cannot tell you now but which you no doubt will some day learn from Noel And of course you and I have not [illegible] the terms he made with you for overlooking the episode of the masked dance and taking you back as his dreaming princess.'

A crimson flush traveled from Mary's throat to her forehead and then receded while her eyes were raised her acknowledgment of my thrust

We need not dwell upon Phillip Veritzen's implacable determination to disinherit Noel if the engagement to Olga did not materialize but it is of something to be taken lightly No circumstance in Nola's future are determined to do, will take a first [illegible] which must not be ruffled by impulse and ill-advised acts

Mary's eyes opened wide at my reference to Nola's friends but she made no comment and I went on hurriedly

"I have a surprise in store for you Mary I said eagerly "It will be a pleasant one I promise you and I want you to be prepared for it. Nola's friends are coming to visit her and I want you to be nice to them. Especially I want you to be nice to Jubilee Jones"

Mary looked at me in astonishment

Jubilee Jones? she repeated Who is he?

He is a boy who lives in the mountains near Valhalla Notch I met him when I was there on my vacation and he is a very unusual boy. He is a genius in his way and I want you to be nice to him

Good looking...a good dancer but "B.O." killed her charm

(Body Odor)

THE girl of his dreams! So she seemed—at first glance.

She danced wonderfully, too. Yet before the music stopped, the dream had vanished.

"Thanks for the dance," he murmured politely. But how different his real thoughts! He didn't come near her again all evening.

A humiliating experience. But it could never happen to Betty today. For she finally discovered what was spoiling her attractiveness, "B.O."—Body Odor! And then she found an easy way to overcome this unpardonable fault.

Betty is now admired, sought after by everyone. Read her story that follows.

"B.O." certainly fooled me for a long time.

"It was my doctor who told me why we're so rarely aware of our own body odor. The sense of smell becomes deadened to a familiar odor. But even on cool days, the pores give off as much as a quart of odor-causing waste, he said.

"Now, on his advice, I use Lifebuoy all the time and never worry about B.O.. Lifebuoy's antiseptic lather purifies. You do feel cleaner, fresher after a Lifebuoy bath.

Keeps complexion clear

"Lifebuoy keeps my skin so healthy-looking, too. And its refreshing scent vanishes as you rinse. My whole family enjoy using Lifebuoy."

O.S.U. Frat Members Not Strong for New Ruling

Marion Star Bureau
Ohio State University

COLUMBUS, O., April 22—The new faculty rule limiting the period of fraternity and sorority initiations at Ohio State university, is liked "not at all" by active members of the organizations following the first trial of the new plan last week-end.

By a practically unanimous vote, the faculty provided a rule by which neophytes of the various social fraternities and sororities on the campus were to be given only 36 hours for rough initiation. "Hell Week" previously lasted three and sometimes four days on the campus.

Several Greek-lettered organization have protested against the new system in a public statement through the campus daily newspaper on Monday following the spring initiation ceremony which began Friday noon and lasted until midnight Saturday.

In the protest, the fraternity and sorority actives declared that the period allotted by the faculty rule was not long enough to sufficiently impress the seriousness of the initiation upon the neophytes.

As a result of the new rule, leaders declare that neophytes this spring were given the lightest rough initiation in the history of the university. A decrease in the severity of the ceremony was evident in nearly every organization on the university campus.

Stay on Premises

A few of the fraternities were favorably impressed with the results of the initiation mainly because the time was shortened and that the ceremony did not detract from studies as was the case in initiations held in former years at Ohio State. Before the new rule was passed, initiations began in the middle of the week.

At most of the Greek houses, neophytes were required to maintain a sleepless all-night vigil and put in most of their time in renovating and house-cleaning. The traditional "long walk" which took initiates in previous years many miles from home, was eliminated by the new rule which also provided that the ceremonies should be held within the premises of the fraternity and sorority houses.

What a bride of six months learned about her husband

"As a bride of six months, I had much to learn about the eating habits of my newly acquired husband. I found that he was drinking caffein with his meals three times a day, and wondering why he was so nervous and irritable.

"Then I came into possession of a sample package of Postum and read about the 30-day test. I tactfully introduced the subject to my husband. He consented to the test.

"The results of those thirty days read like a fairy tale. My husband's irritability vanished; he slept soundly, and was perfectly well. When the thirty days were over, he preferred Postum."

Mrs. _____
Syracuse, N.Y.

TRY this test! Eliminate caffein from your diet for thirty days—make Postum your mealtime drink instead. You'll be amazed at the difference it can make! In the way you sleep, in the way you feel!

Postum is made of roasted whole wheat and bran—no trace of any artificial stimulant in it! Nothing to interfere with sleep, to attack nerves and heart, or cause indigestion. You'll enjoy Postum for its flavor, too—a rich, distinctive flavor that millions prefer.

Your grocer has Postum in two forms—Instant Postum, prepared instantly in the cup, or Postum Cereal, the kind you boil. Both cost much less than most other mealtime drinks—only one-half cent a cup. Order today—start your 30-day test!

7 DIRECTORS NAMED AT ROTARY MEETING

Prof. E. E. Lewis Outlines Ohio's Work in State Education

Election of seven directors to take office June 1 and an address by Prof. E. E. Lewis, head of the department of school administration in the college of education at Ohio State university, featured today's program of the Marion Rotary club at Hotel Harding.

Dr. James Crawmer, Don A. Howard, Earl N. Hale, Morris Hahn, Roman Knecht, James Llewellyn and L. C. Staug were named members of the new board. Organization will be effected some time this week and officers announced at next Monday's meeting.

Describing the relationship of higher education to man's activities and civilization, Professor Lewis particularly outlined Ohio's work in the state educational field.

He pointed out that Ohio, while still far behind some other states in the matter of a state university, was doing something few other states have done, maintaining five liberal arts colleges, Ohio State, Miami, Ohio, Bowling Green and Kent State Normal.

Ohio State at the present time is instructing students in between 400 and 500 occupational activities, Professor Lewis said. He added that the 1930 census showed that there were 20,000 occupations by which man gained a living. He predicted that the 1930 census would show 25,000.

Following Professor Lewis' talk President Clarence Brown named Dr. John Dodd chairman of a Rotary golf committee to organize club golfers for interclty matches. Other members of the committee are Don A. Howard and R. T. Lewis.

2 DEAD AS STORMS SWEEP OHIO VALLEY

Southern Part of Buckeye State Slightly Damaged by Wind

COLUMBUS, April 22—The near tornadoes, rain and wind storms which killed more than a score of persons in the south and middle west over the week-end, claimed two lives and caused several injuries in the Ohio valley region and did considerable damage in parts of the Buckeye state, a checkup revealed today.

Howard Hauk and Clifford Sabders, each 13 years old, were instantly killed and a number of other boys were shocked when lightning struck a barn in which they sought shelter at Walton, Ky., south of Covington.

Six persons were slightly injured at Huntington, W. Va., when a near tornado struck that city.

A heavy rain storm struck Ironton, Ohio, accompanied by a strong wind. Houses were unroofed, trees were uprooted, telephone wires were leveled and traffic was disrupted. Mrs. Charles Butler was struck on the back of her neck by a brick from a falling chimney.

A heavy hail storm struck Portsmouth, Ohio, and did considerable damage to fruit orchards.

At Toledo, a 28-hour rain caused high waters and flooded lowlands and cellars.

AVOID UGLY PIMPLES

A pimply face will not embarrass you much longer if you get a package of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights.

Cleanse the blood, bowels and liver with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel; there's no sickness or pain after taking them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.

No one who takes Olive Tablets is ever cursed with a "dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition or pimply face.

Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; know them by their olive color.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints and Olive Tablets are the immediately effective result. Take nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 15c, 30c, 60c.—Adv.

Civic Concert Audience Enjoys Sunday Program of Marion Music Groups

Second of Series of Free Recitals Attracts Large Attendance Despite Unfavorable Weather; Chorus and Solo Numbers Make Up Pleasing Entertainment

In spite of the inclement weather yesterday, a good sized audience heard the second of a series of four free civic concerts which the Marion Lecture-Recital club and the Canto club are sponsoring this spring in the Star auditorium, loaned through the courtesy of The Marion Star.

The singing of the Recital club chorus was considered by many the best it has done this year. Mrs. Edith Kunzler-Unger, of Bucyrus, directed the chorus of 16 voices in the opening number, "Listen to the Lambs," by Dett. Miss Lois Snodgrass, a member of the club and director of the Junior Lecture-Recital club, sang a pleasing soprano obligato throughout the selection.

Miss Melvina Summers, a member of the club and one of Marion's talented younger musicians, played a well chosen group including "Bourree," Bach, "Gavotte," Gluck-Brahms and "The Sunken Cathedral," DeBussy.

Mrs. Rutherford's Numbers

"April Rain" Hathaway, "Thoughts Have Wings," Lehman and "The Weaver," Adams, were sung by Mrs. Florence Shaw Rutherford, a club member and a soprano who has broadcast from Columbus stations several times this winter. She was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. H. K. Mouser, music chairman of the Ohio Federation of Women's clubs.

Joseph Williams, one of the Junior club members, with his mother, Mrs W. M. Williams, played a group of mirimba selections including "The Holy City," Adams and "Beautiful Isle," Pearce. Mirimba numbers are unusual on the club programs, and especially those given by junior members.

One of the most interesting of the many delightful groups presented were the tenor solo numbers of the Rev. J. E. Campbell, of this city, widely known as a singing evangelist. His voice is a clear, deep tenor, and was enthusiastically applauded by the audience. Mrs. Earl N. Hale accompanied him at the piano in his two numbers, "The Lord Is My Light," Alliston, and "The Old Refrain," Kreisler.

Final Chorus Selections

The club chorus closed the program with "Croon, Croon, Undercast De Moon," Clutsam and "Murmuring Breezes," Jensen. Miss Summers accompanied the chorus at the piano.

CHARLESTON BANK FILES PETITION

West Virginia Concern Asks Settlement in Morrow County Court

MT. GILEAD, April 22—A petition has been filed in the common pleas court here by the plaintiff in the money, foreclosure, receivership and equitable relief case of The Virginian Joint Stock Land Bank of Charleston, located in Charleston, W. Va., a corporation against Lilburn L. Hobson, Mary Hobson, L. V. Uncapher, J. H. Uncapher and The Marion County Bank company, a corporation, of Marion, Ohio.

The plaintiff in the petition states that the defendants Lilburn Hobson and Mary Hobson delivered their promissory note, on Feb. 12, 1923, to The First Joint Stock Bank of Dayton, which was later taken in by the plaintiff, for $20,000, $700 of which was to be paid annually.

CLASH OVER RATE

Reserve Board Fight May Cause Congressional Probe

WASHINGTON, April 22—A renewed effort to force a general investigation of the federal reserve system by members of congress, for some time advocating the inquiry, undoubtedly will result from the evident clash on rediscount rates between the reserve board and advisory council.

Today it was agreed that the council ran up against an impassable barrier when it demanded that the reserve board approve applications for advances in rediscount rates from the reserve banks.

NEGRO DROPS CHICKENS, THEY LAY EGGS IN JAIL

COLUMBUS, April 22—City prison officials are seriously considering the advisability of displaying a "strictly fresh eggs for sale," sign on the local bastile.

When two cops passed a young negro carrying a crate of chickens Saturday night, the negro dropped them and fled. The officers lodged the chickens in jail. During their stay in the bastile yesterday, they laid a half dozen eggs. They have not as yet been claimed, and it looks as if city officials will have a daily egg supply.

SINCLAIR'S FIGHT TO ESCAPE JAIL FAILS

Supreme Court Dismisses Oil Magnate's Petition for Rehearing

WASHINGTON, April 22 — The last hope of Harry F. Sinclair that he might escape serving a 90-day term to the district jail for contempt of the U. S. senate dickered out today when the U. S. supreme court dismissed his petition for rehearing and review.

The court two weeks ago affirmed his sentence, but Sinclair chose to take his "thousand-to-one chance" of securing a rehearing, and thereby delay the hour when he must surrender himself for imprisonment.

Acting with its customary alacrity in such cases, the high court speedily rejected his petition today.

While the court was affirming the 90-day sentence for contempt of the senate, it was also receiving from Sinclair an appeal against another sentence of six months which the multi-millionaire oil magnate received because his agents shadowed jurors in his trial for conspiracy. The second appeal will not be decided for some time.

MAY GET BREAK

O. S. U. Students Favor Change in Examination Program

COLUMBUS, April 22—Students at Ohio State university may be given a "break" in the matter of taking final examinations should a favorable report be returned by a committee composed of faculty members who were appointed recently to conduct an investigation of the examination situation at the university.

Regardless of the report which might be given by the faculty committee, a change in the present method of conducting examinations looms as a result of the action taken by the faculty members at a recent meeting.

Need for change in the present system has been evidenced in the fact that some students are required to take as many as three final examinations in a single day. During the remainder of the four-day period, those unfortunate students slated for the three examinations within a limited time of about eight hours, are comparatively free.

The committee appointed by the faculty has been requested to study the situation with a view either to extending the quarterly examination period or of finding some other remedy for the objections which have been raised in opposition to the present plan.

Following the announcement of the intention of the faculty in revising the examination plan, student opinion has been found to be heartily in favor of the move.

A revision of the present plan will likely mean the elimination of "cramming" devices practiced by students, to say nothing of all-night study vigils in anticipation of two or more final examinations the following day.

She was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. F. L. Topliff. Mrs. J. C. Thuma read a poem, "To A Mountain Daisy," Burns, and Mrs. Eugene English gave an interesting talk on "How To Beautify Our Highways." A piano solo, Edelwiss Glide," was played by Mrs. Karl Kniffin. The hostess, assisted by Mrs. English served a luncheon. The color scheme in the diningroom was pink and yellow, the table being centered with a large bowl of tulips. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Karl Kniffin, Thursday, May 2.

After all there may be some consolation in the fact that no man has to pay his undertaker's bill.

Hits from "Showboat"

TO BE PLAYED BY WHITEMAN

on Tuesday Radio Bill

BY MAC L. ROY

FOUR of the outstanding numbers from Ziegfeld's musical success "Showboat", will be played by Paul Whiteman and his orchestra as a feature of the hour to be broadcast over stations associated with the Columbia Broadcasting System at 9 o'clock Tuesday night. The medley will be opened and closed with "Ole Man River," and is to include "Let's Make Believe," "Can't Help Lovin' That Man" and "Why Do I Love You."

As usual, Gershwin's famous "Rhapsody in Blue" is to provide the signature of the program, which will have as its first selection, Massenet's "Elegy", an example of one of Whiteman's inimitable arrangements of the classics. This will be followed by "Give Your Baby Lots of Lovin'," as a contrast. Another medley presented will contain excerpts from the most popular waltzes of all time such as "My Hero", "Blue Danube", "Pink Lady" and the "Merry Widow."

The musical show, "The Three Musketeers," will contribute two of its tunes with "Ma Belle" and the stirring "March of the Musketeers". Among recent hits of today that are included on Paul Whiteman's list for this broadcast and which will be given something different in the matter of interpretation by the king of jazz are "Precious Little Thing Called Love", "I Kiss Your Hand, Madam" and "Sweethearts on Parade."

SONG OWNERS LOSE IN SUIT AGAINST HOTEL

THE first decision of its kind, a federal judge has upheld the right of hotels owning central receiving sets to receive and transmit copyrighted music broadcast from radio stations to guest rooms over loud speaker systems, according to a press dispatch from Kansas City, Mo.

The decision drew a line between radio programs and talking machine records.

The effect that the decision will have on the situation in Marion is not known. Several of the local restaurants operating radio receiving sets for the entertainment of their patrons were forced to abandon the project when the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers threatened suit for alleged infringement of copyright on musical compositions received over the receivers.

FOURTH OF COUNTRY ON DAYLIGHT TIME

New York State Makes Advanced Hour Mandatory Within Its Confines

NEW YORK, April 22—Daylight savings time—that widespread practice that enjoys both the approval and disapproval of millions—will be used by more than one-fourth of the country's entire population when it goes into effect within the near future.

In many cases, towns which employed the smallest conservation plan last year have announced their intention of discarding it in 1929, but on the whole the movement is larger this spring than at any time previous.

A survey made in New York today by the merchants association indicates that virtually every city of importance in the country, particularly those in which major and minor league baseball is played, will use daylight savings time this summer.

Just a few weeks ago the state of New York passed a law making daylight savings time mandatory within its confines, much to the consternation of six small towns that had decided during the winter to use only Eastern Standard time.

Another state with a similar law is Massachusetts, where the practice enjoys a wide popularity.

In New York, daylight savings will be in effect this year from 2 a. m. April 28 to 2 a. m. Sept. 29.

An interesting commentary on the differences of opinion that exist in regard to prolonging the daytime is the situation in Connecticut. Rural legislators in the New England state have decreed that it is an offense to show any other time but Eastern Standard on public clocks.

Nevertheless 33 Connecticut cities and villages, banks offices, stores and factories have decided to continue the observance of daylight savings time.

The majority of states leave the use of the "false" time up to the individual communities themselves.

AUTOIST FINED $150, LICENSE SUSPENDED

Fred Drake Settles for Damage to Store; Can't Drive for 3 Years

For backing his automobile through a store window while in a state of intoxication, Fred Drake, 50, of 220 Lincoln av., was fined $150 and costs, Saturday, and his driving rights suspended for three years. This sentence was imposed by Municipal Judge William R. Martin Saturday night after Drake changed the "not guilty" plea he had entered Saturday morning to "guilty."

A six-month sentence to the Dayton workhouse was suspended on the payment of $300 damage done to the rooms of the Decker Supply Co. at 184 North Main st., through whose window Drake's car crashed Saturday morning shortly after 1 o'clock.

Drake was charged with driving while intoxicated, and prosecuted for what was reported to be his second offense of this nature.

His car was insured for property damage.

About 1 o'clock Saturday morning Drake entered his car, which was parked at an angle on the west side of North Main st. He backed the car into the street, but did not turn it parallel with the street. The car backed across the street, and after climbing the east curb, crashed through the Decker Supply Co. window, snapping off a steam radiator and demolishing some plumbing fixtures.

All aboard for another evening of good cheer.
800 people attended the Eleventh Annual Two Easter parties held at Rainbow Garden last Wednesday and Friday; never before in all the history has such an event ever been held under such wonderful conditions. Easter Candy, Easter Rabbits, Easter Colors, and everything.
Music — Wednesday evening, Happy Harmony Five. Their music certainly met with the approval of our patrons and was applauded time and time again. They radiate good cheer and know how to play for the quadrilles and Round dances. The famous Valencians direct from the Grosvenor, Mansfield's most beautiful Ballroom, the favorite Dance Band over Radio Station WLW played group after group of sizzling hot tunes, mixed with many shades of pretty laces of notes into the exotic fabric of dance music Friday eve. Their program certainly demands attention. Gaiety and enjoyment prevailed throughout the evening; the Easter novelties was enjoyed immensely. There were many visitors from Mansfield, Delaware, Bucyrus, Kenton, Caledonia, Mt. Gilead, Galion, Crestline, Prospect.

JACK KELLER MEETS FRANKIE KAETH IN MAIN GO OF CARD

32 Rounds of Fighting Booked for Next Monday Night

BY KARL R. McELROY
Sports Editor, The Star

JACK KELLER, Toledo, vs. Frankie Kaeth, Cleveland, eight rounds; Lee Meredith, Toledo, vs Jack Berger, Cleveland, eight rounds; Eddie Meredith, Toledo, vs. Al Newman, Cleveland, six rounds; Wildcat Malone, Marion, vs. Johnnie Sanders, Cleveland; Bob Hudson, Marion, vs K. O. Smith, Marion.

That's the fistic menu that will be served with all the fixin's to Marion sport fans a week from tonight in Eagles hall. Thirty-two rounds of boxing is scheduled on the final April program.

Two boxers, new to the Marion canvas, will be featured in the main go engagement of the card. They are Frankie Kaeth of Cleveland and Jack Keller of Toledo. Kaeth is fighting for Johnny and Ollie Downs of Cleveland while the Toledo boy is under the management of Eddie Mack.

Kaeth has just returned from the Pacific coast where he won 10 straight bouts. He is booked as a mighty clever boxer packing plenty of the old wallop in both hands.

Keller a brother of Babe Keller, is a veteran slugger who is able to take care of himself against the best of boxers. He has met such boys as Benny Burns, Maxie Holub, Mickey Dugan, Louie DeArco, Emery Cubano, Maxie Strub and other lesser lights of the sport.

Little need be said of Lee Meredith who appeared on the last card here. The Toledo boy made Jack Bently of Columbus look like a dub before the bout was stopped in the second round. He is matched against Jack Berger of Cleveland in the semi-final affair.

Lee's brother Eddie who stopped Chuck Walters of Columbus earlier in the month, is in the main preliminary battle with Al Newman of Cleveland.

ROCKNE, MEANWELL ON SCHOOL STAFF

Will Appear Before Coaches at Wittenberg This Summer

SPRINGFIELD, April 22—Knute K. Rockne of Notre Dame and Dr. Walter E. Meanwell of Wisconsin who will jointly conduct a coaching school at Wittenberg College, June 17-29, enjoy reputations as teachers of major sports that are justified by an ability to produce winning teams season after season.

Or, at least, such combinations that are feared every inch of the way, and during every minute of play.

If it were not for some short reverses during some isolated seasons these two coaches would go forever into the realm of the supernatural, and would be lost forever, as far as human men and their interests are concerned.

So famous are these two that even after they have gone from their spheres of collegiate sport they will be held in the memories of men as the terrible names of Tamerlane and Genghis Khan.

Rockne who attended Notre Dame as a student and who was graduated in 1914, became director of athletics there in 1917, and football coach and track coach. Since that time Rockne's football teams have won 92 games, lost 13 and tied six, which makes a batting average of 900, which is some batting average.

Just the same, we enjoy the praises of people we despise.

The woman question for centuries has been "What did she have on?"

PSYCHOLOGY TURNS TO A'S AS GROVE DEFEATS YANKEES

Hornsby Has Perfect Day at Bat as Cubs Defeat Cardinals

BY LES CONKLIN

NEW YORK, April 22—The Yankees will face a 10-man team today when they take on Connie Mack's Athletics here in the final game of the series. The tenth member of the Philadelphia line-up is old man psychology, who went over to Mack's camp yesterday when Robert Moses Grove, the star southpaw who was beaten by the world's champions six times in seven starts last year, handed them a 7 to 4 trimming in his first 1929 appearance against them.

That performance killed jinx No. 2, jinx No. 2, the fact that the A's lost the pennant last year by dropping 10 of their 22 games with the Yanks, will receive a mortal wound if the Macks can capture the first 1929 series, which they can do by winning the final game today. For thereafter old man psychology will be in there pinch-hitting for Connie.

Hornsby Perfect

Rogers Hornsby, who cost Bill Wrigley of the Cubs enough dough to pave the Lincoln highway with chewing gum, is fast earning his 1020 meal ticket. The terrible Texan's batting average jumped to .583 when he enjoyed a perfect day at bat with four hits against the Cardinals. Guy Bush pickled only three hits and gained a 4-to 0 decision over Clarence Mitchell.

Detroit took a 25 hit slugfest from St. Louis, 16 to 0. The Tigers looked like dumb Dutchels when the Browns pulled the hidden ball trick on them, but redeemed themselves by collecting 21 hits. The pitchers had an off day and committed four balks. Dale Alexander, former home run king of the International league, socked his first homer for Detroit.

The Brooklyn Robins, whose specialty is making stars out of opposing pitchers, have yet to taste the sweets of victory in five starts. They got but three hits off Alex Ferguson and lost to the Phils, 4 to 1.

Other teams were held idle by rain.

WIDOWER SUICIDES

CINCINNATI, April 22 — Fred Sellinger, 70, committed suicide yesterday because of despondency over the death of his wife a year ago, it was learned here today. Sellinger ended his life by shooting himself. A daughter of the aged man, Mrs Hertha Bell, told police her father had grieved continuously since his wife's death.

A dry sermon is excusable on a wet Sunday.

GRISWOLD DIES

Former Marion County Man, Dean of Sports Writers, Dies

SANDY GRISWOLD, 80, former Marion county man, and dean of American sports writers, died Saturday in Omaha, Neb., of acute heart trouble.

His name was Samuel Gerard Vietz Griswold, but most all knew him as Sandy. Born near Marion, Feb. 16, 1849, Mr. Griswold came from a family distinguished in letters, art and science. When only 15 years old he began writing for the Philadelphia Saturday Night, later for the Saturday Evening Post and the New York Weekly. He later joined the staff of Beadle & Adams, first dime novel publishers.

In 1873 he became a member of the New York Sun staff, later going to the Toledo Commercial as city editor, and then with the Cincinnati Inquirer as sporting editor.

He came to the Omaha Bee in 1888 as sporting editor and came to the World Herald in 1898, in a similar capacity. Here he was sports editor, columnist and feature writer.

84 RUNNERS ENTER PENN RELAY EVENT

21 Colleges Will Battle for Four-Mile Championship Saturday

PHILADELPHIA, April 22—Eighty-four mile runners, representing 21 institutions will carry the baton, in the four mile relay championship of America, the last race on the two day program of the University of Pennsylvania relay carnival which will be held on Franklin field this Friday and Saturday.

H Jamison Swarts, manager of the carnival, is authority for the statement that the entry list for the four mile event is the largest in the 35 years of carnival history.

Seldom if ever, has such a field of splendid milers congregated in one meet. They will represent colleges from the north, south, east and midwest in what promises to be one of the most interesting events on the entire program.

Athletes from all sections of the country will start arriving on Franklin field for final tuning up before the races. Hamilton Academy, from Honolulu, Hawaii, the team traveling the longest distance of any entered in the carnival, is expected to arrive tomorrow to complete its training.

You never can tell. Even the woman who boasts that her face is her fortune may be forced into bankruptcy.

ATHLETICS STEP TO FRONT IN RACE FOR AMERICAN PENNANT

Braves and Washington Are Other Surprises for League "Experts"

BY DAVIS J. WALSH

NEW YORK, April 22—Politics may make strange bedfellows but baseball is the room clerk who locks them in and throws the key away. We were told, for example, that the Philadelphia Athletics were ready for the scrubwoman. They are at the top of the American league standing today. We were further informed that the Washington Senators were ready to run wild with a lot of early speed. They are at the bottom. And, doctor, feel my pulse! The Boston Braves, who were supposed to be ready for the department of street cleaning, are leading the National league with a percentage of 1.000.

The Braves, of course, simply got a break on the schedule. Bad as they may be, they were matched at the outset with the one club which may be worse, the Brooklyn Dodgers. The latter wins the rungless stepladder, having blown five games in as many starts to the Braves and Phillies. This ordinarily is hard to do but not for the Dodgers. They have the copyright.

A's Form Acrobats

The Athletics are the real form acrobats of the two races to date. Deprived of Simmons and Boley and coupled with the Senators and Yankees for their last two series, the situation was not exactly jocund and Mr. Mack had all he could do to hit his bosom over and above his vest pocket. Whereupon the Athletics took two straight from the Senators, won another from the Yankees yesterday and only managed to blow a victory for Jack Quinn on Friday when an outfielder lost two fly balls in the sun.

This was a tough break for all concerned. The man was not to blame. He hadn't seen the sun since last year.

The Yankees, therefore, might well have been without a single victory today. Of course, they beat the Red Sox in the season's opener and I presume they mean to be technical and count that one, too. At that, the Senators could do no better than an even break with the Sox, which indicates that all of that training camp speed can run for Mr. Sweeney, the eminent fishmonger. The Indians are up there with the Athletics but they will be excused presently.

Cubs Go Wild

The Chicago Cubs dropped one to the Pirates on opening day but haven't been stopped since by either the Pirates or Cardinals, but contenders both. Yesterday Bush wrapped the Cards up inside a three hit shutout, indicating that all of this advance megaphoning on the Cubs wasn't a lot of throat gargle. So far, they have had the pitching and the hitting and, if they ever need anything else, they'll be sure to let you know. The Giants won two from the Phillies only because their bad pitching was better than the Phils', which usually is bad beyond all contest. Outside of the fact that the Cincinnati Reds could win only one game out of five and the present status of the Braves is somewhat out of focus, the rest of the National league order isn't altogether out of character.

But what price "experting," with the Athletics presumed to be shot and the Braves deserving to be, with Washington touted as the dark horse and the Indians pegged to start losing immediately and, if possible, sooner?

Take nothing for granted in baseball.

MEETS TONIGHT

Recreation Ball Commission Will Name Committees

THE Marion recreation ball commission will prepare for the opening of the season here sometime in May tonight when various standing committees will be appointed by Norris Crissinger, president.

In addition to the appointment of committees, plans for the proposed changes in the rules will be made. It is likely that a date will be set for the opening of the season.

MINNESOTA PLAYS OHIO STATE NINE TODAY AND TUESDAY

Gophers To Start Big Ten Conference Season with Buckeyes

COLUMBUS, April 22 — Ohio State's baseball team, which arrived here yesterday from its unsuccessful Indiana trip where it met defeat at the hands of both the University of Indiana nine and Purdue's veteran team, is to have no rest.

Contrary to the official schedule which calls for games with Minnesota early in May, the Gopher nine comes here today for a two-game stand with the Buckeyes, today and tomorrow.

The Gophers have been on a barnstorming tour of this section of the country and met defeat only once, that at the hands of St Xavier of Cincinnati, last week.

Despite the fact that they have had no let up, Wayne Wright's crew of Buckeyes will be out to win in the two frays with the boys from Minnesota. Today's game marks the first Big Ten tilt of the season for the visitors, while Ohio State has played three conference games, all of which were lost. Indiana's track team took two of them and the other Hoosier nine was on top in the other.

Many hear the call to game, but few deliver the goods.

MEN WHO SMOKE AND GUARD THEIR HEALTH, SMOKE CIGARS

"—ON ALL COUNTS THE CIGAR IS A BETTER SMOKE THAN THE CIGARETTE" says famous English Physician
ARTHUR MILLER, M.D., B.S., M.R.C.S., L.R.C.P.

LA PALINA is America's Largest Selling High Grade Cigar (OVER A MILLION A DAY). Its outstanding popularity is the best proof of its unusual quality.

"A man smokes for two reasons—to soothe his nerves and to please his palate. For either purpose the Cigar is better than the Cigarette. Cigarettes do not soothe, they irritate. They irritate the throat, and they irritate the nervous system. They stimulate, but they do not satisfy. Cigarette smoking is itself nothing but a nervous habit."

"Cigars seldom cause a cough, because they can be enjoyed without inhaling. They soothe the nerves and satisfy the palate. The gratification you get out of a thing is the measure of the good it does you. Gratification rules out excess, and excessive Cigar smoking is rare. Excessive Cigarette smoking is common, but I have never met a 'chain smoker' of Cigars."

"Therefore on all counts the Cigar is a better smoke than the Cigarette."

Arthur Miller, M.D.

Doctor Arthur Miller is Medical Superintendent to the Royal Mail Steam Packet Company, Medical Adviser to Lloyd's Bank, Lecturer to the London Convoy Committee, and Physician to Outpatients of the Evelina Hospital, London.

Tune in on the La Palina Radio Program
Every Wednesday night, 9:30 o'clock eastern time and on the La Palina Hour every Sunday night at 8:00 over the Columbia Broadcasting System.

ANCIENT GERMAN CITY KEEPS TIME ON BELL

TUBINGEN—In the tiny ancient city of Rottenburg, not far from Tubingen, the watchman in the tower of the cathedral still strikes the hour and the quarter and half hours on a bell, as has been done for untold centuries. But the city council has now decided to have a new clock built in the tower, with an automatic striking device, and another bell, which must varnish before modernists

Industrial Stocks Start Week At Higher Price Levels

"OUTSIDE TRADERS" RETURN TO MARKET

Wall Street Bankers Pleased at Hoover's Farm Relief Attitude

ACCEPTANCE RATE DROPS

Theatrical, Motor Car and Steels Stage Small Rallies

BY W. S. COUSINS
I. N. S. Financial Editor

NEW YORK, April 22—Industrial stocks in all sections of the market started the new week at higher price levels today.

Last week's rise in the theatrical, motor car, steel and specialty stocks continued in good form, with a few of the favorites up two to 3½ points in the first half hour, investment buying of American Tel and Tel sent that stock up 5½ points to a new high at 234¾, and Montgomery Ward at the head of the "store" stocks, moved up about four points to 178.

A good sign of easier money conditions was seen in the reduction of bankers' acceptances ¼ of one per cent for all but the 30-day maturities, which remain unchanged. The call money rate was unchanged at 5½ per cent.

Wall Street saw the first evidences today of the return to the market of some of the "outside traders" who had been squeezed out in the March reaction. Only a fair sized rally in prices, with signs of an easier money market, could entice back the small-fry traders who were so badly hurt in that violent reaction, with the 15 and 20 per cent call loan market increasing the burdens of the margin speculator; but this rally has been in progress now for nearly a week and the losses of thousands of these outside traders have thus been recouped.

Bankers and brokers in the financial district were delighted with President Hoover's sound financial reasoning in the agricultural relief emergency program now before congress. The farm bloc has been put in its place, and given the benefit of the best economic advice in a decade, while the president has assured the country that no ball-bated program of farm relief for political purposes only will ever reach the statute books.

SHOVEL CO. STOCK STARTS ON UPGRADE

After dropping to the year's low mark in last week's sales on the New York curb market, Marion Steam Shovel Co. common stock started on the upgrade and closed the week at 9. The low was registered at 23 7-8. Sales for the week ending Friday amounted to 2,400 shares. The high mark recorded thus far this year is 37 7-8.

Meat Prices Decline After Holding High for Month

After nearly a month of sustained high levels, meat prices made their first drop on Marion markets this morning, reports from local dealers show. Several items showed substantial declines, selling at several cents a pound less than their former prices.

Dried beef, one of the most popular warm weather meats, dropped between four and ten cents a pound. The prices for this item now stand between 35 and 75 cents, while the former prices were 65 to 79 cents a pound.

Pork chops are now down to 29-35 cents a pound, a drop of several cents from the former price of 34-37 cents. This item was one of those registering marked gains a month ago.

Some of the cheaper meats also joined in the tendency of prices to drop, and stood at lower levels this morning. Boiling beef dropped from 22 cents to 19 cents a pound, chuck roast from 27 to 25 cents a pound. Neck bones saw stand at nine cents instead of the former 11 cents a pound.

There were but few changes in fruit and vegetable prices over the week-end. Lemons are now selling at 35 cents a dozen, a gain of six cents over the former price of 29 cents. This is probably due to anticipation of the increased demand for lemons during the warmer months, when lemonade is especially popular. Hothouse cucumbers are standing at 20 cents each, rather than the former 15 cents.

TODAY'S REVIEW OF GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, April 22—Highly nervous and erratic grain markets followed the sharp break of a week ago today, when holders unloaded because of disappointment that farm relief plans were not radical. In wheat a heavy tone prevailed, due to the bearish domestic situation, and later in the week May wheat sold at a new low on the crop.

At the close Saturday wheat prices were 6 1-2@7 1-4c lower for the week. Corn was 1 1-8@1 2-8c down, oats 1-2c up to 2 1-4c lower, and rye 7 7-8@9 1-2c off.

Senator Capper's request Monday for President Hoover's intercession in behalf of the farmers for a reduced freight rate on export wheat precipitated the break. It brought sharply to the attention of the trade the overwhelmingly bearish present position in the Southwest, with enormous stocks and a new crop little more than sixty days away.

Bulls Disappointed

President Hoover's speech, coming on the same day with the introduction of the farm bill to Congress, added impetus to the decline. In his address he clearly showed that the administration has no intention of putting the government into the grain business, nor has it any intention of making any radical departure from preliminary plans. This was a sharp disappointment to bulls, who have been buying on the belief that something startling was to be contained in the bill.

As the market stands today there is a lack of definite sentiment, accounting for the lack of aggressive action and the nervous market as "in and out" traders shift from side to side.

Bulls who see the prospect of higher prices on possible bullish crop developments both here and in Europe and legislation are restrained from taking too long a position because of the intensely bearish supply situation, the large open interest in the May and delivery date only a week and a half away. That there is considerable buying seems assured by the growing open interest in the deferred options, which more than offsets the decline in the May. The total is again near the record, having reached the 100,000,000 bu mark Friday.

On the other hand, with all the nearby factors in their favor, excellent crop prospects, the enormous stocks and proximity of winter wheat harvest, and the none too active foreign demand, bears are reluctant to press the market. Action of the market the past two weeks has proven that only rumors from Washington are needed to start a wave of short covering and bounding prices highly disconcerting to one in an extensive short position.

Corn was relatively firm throughout the week and rallied at times, despite the depressing influence of wheat. Improving cash situations, with heavy out-shipments with the opening of navigation, have bettered the feeling toward corn. However, there were indications at the close of the week that tired longs were disposing of some of their holdings on the hard spots, because of the tendency of the market to follow the trend of wheat. In general the trade remains friendly to corn, with most houses advising its purchase, but it is also felt that at least a steadier tone in wheat must be seen before corn can hold advances.

PARENTS UNDERSTOOD THIS BABY'S LANGUAGE

"We thought we were going to lose our baby, teething," says a Kentucky mother. "He couldn't digest anything and was getting thinner every day. After one of his restful, crying nights, I thought of Castoria and got some. A few drops inside him comfortable, and after a few doses, he seemed like a different baby." Doctors everywhere recommend purely vegetable, harmless Fletcher's Castoria for colds, constipation, colic and other ills of babies and children, and millions of mothers know its gentle influence is best. Avoid imitations. The Fletcher signature is the mark of genuine Castoria.—Adv
